Comments from Cooperative Extension Service County Agents

“Rains are hampering harvest efforts across the county. Grain quality is holding right now.”

- Rick Wimberley, Cross County

“Last week, rain continued to hamper soybean harvest and wheat planting.”

- Kevin Lawson, Faulkner County

“From summer to winter, the transition has been swift. Much cooler temperatures have descended on southern Arkansas. An early hard freeze and continued cooler temperatures has swiftly sent the trees into winter dormancy. Some producers got their winter forages started. Livestock are in good shape with most producers confident they have enough hay depending on how hard and cold the winter will be.”

- Glenda Sutherlin, Union County

“Rains continued to hinder crop harvest and field preparation.”

- Russ Parker, Crittenden County

“Limited harvesting of soybeans was taking place. Livestock were receiving supplement feeding.”

- Brent Griffin, Prairie County
